Miller Homes Development Update

Miller Homes has submitted a plan proposing to build on land at Northbank Farm, adjacent to Kinglass Fields which BCC note is not identified within the current development plan.

Arthur Mann, Strategic Land Developer of Miller Homes explained they are building on sites identified in the last 2 development plans. Northbank will hold 450 houses, with a first phase of 200. Up to 25% of the onsite housing could be affordable housing. 66% of buyers at the Miller Homes current developments in Bo'ness come from this area.

Miller Homes propose to submit a planning application in the second half of this year and hopes to commence work at the start of 2019. If this plan were to be accepted, the first phase of 200 houses proposed should create 100 new pupils for Bo'ness schools, which are under-subscribed. 47% of the house buyers are looking to upsize. This plan could create 50 affordable houses onsite.

The Community Council and members of the public have concerns about cars driving too fast on Borrowstoun Road, which may lead to accidents. An option would be to realign the road to improve traffic safety.

Siobhan: This has cut through the green belt. Borrowstoun Road has been gradually widened and it hasn't helped traffic flow.

480 affordable houses over 18 years would go all the way to the Drum. Siobhan also asked Mr. Mann to confirm that any affordable housing would be affordable housing 'for rent'.

Arthur Mann: The decision about the level of onsite affordable housing results from discussions with Falkirk Council and/or whichever housing association operates in that area. He agreed that affordable housing for rent would be discussed.

Alex King: People are ignoring the one way in the narrowed part of the road in front of Kinglass Cottage.

Arthur Mann: This measure was meant to reduce speed. Any traffic safety matters should be reported to police. Traffic as a wider issue should be referred to the Council. We should perhaps be talking to the Council now about wider traffic issues.

Linda Stuart: Any plans in place to train local people?

Arthur Mann: We already have an active apprenticeship program in place.

Mr. H. Jackson: Cars are getting stuck at the narrowed road, and people are turning right out of the scheme too fast. The sign is too high, it needs to be lowered. Also the cleanliness of the road is really bad.

Arthur Mann: We have just started on that road frontage, so muck may be going onto the road from that.

Donna Gillooly: There is ongoing loudness, especially at 7:30AM on a Sunday. The large vehicles continue using Gauze Road, drive past schools, etc.

Arthur Mann: We will endeavour to make the signs bigger, and restrictions should be placed on subcontractors when they are booked.

There was also concerns raised about the environmental factors of the dust kicked up in the summer. Mr. Mann was concerned that this had not been better actioned and will investigate.

5. Police Report

The purpose of this report is to provide the local community and local stakeholders with information on policing issues affecting the Bo'ness & Blackness ward area. See Appendix 1

There has been a large spate of break-ins in transit vans, particularly Ford. The police requested members of the public to be vigilant of this, particularly if they own a van of this type.

Questions and Answers to the Police Officers

Donna Gillooly: The Erngarth to Marchlands parking is bad, it makes the road too enclosed, but there are no yellow lines.

Police: Council would have to put down yellow lines, we can only do something if they park in a bus stop.

Stuart McAllister: As well as an upsurge in transit thefts, a silver car has been reported as being driven dangerously around Bo'ness. How often do patrols take place in Bo'ness?

Police: You are correct about the transit vans, there are no simple answers, as coded keys are so readily available. We do not have enough resources to patrol anymore, the 'patrol' comes from Banknock, all the way across, as well as an increased size of patrol, we have less officers on shift.

Alex King: What about dog fouling?

Police: The Community Safety Team deal with this.

Linda Stuart: What's the news on the cannabis festival?

Police: We are looking into it.
